estimates that Apple customers deliver an astronomical $40 apiece to the company, versus the pennies per month that Facebook and Google collect, and the few dollars a month that Amazon receives, primarily a result of the expensive devices its consumers are using. Subscription services such as Apple Music and iCloud storage also deliver significant cash. Revenue de servicios de la ahora accounts for 10% of Apple's total sales, up from 9% the year before. In fact, Apple's revenue exceeds Facebook's total revenue. And Cook says that the company has just gotten started. 'Oh, yeah. I expect it to be huge,' he says. The Alabama drawl becoming more pronounced as he delivers the

So maybe all that matters for Apple is that it accessorizes its products better than the rest of the world. And that, essentially, those companies that sell those accessories.

Here's betting Apple's announcement on Wednesday will be destined to be a part of you. And not much that will sound like the personal computer business.
